GreenPath

Topic description

GreenPath is an online platform dedicated to promoting sustainable living, providing practical green tips, product recommendations and the latest environmental news.

The website aims to educate the public on how to reduce the carbon footprint in their daily lives and protect the environment by changing consumption habits and adopting environmentally friendly products.

Users can discover various environmental activities and initiatives and how to participate in them to have a positive impact on the environment.

GreenPath provides a community forum for users to share their environmental experiences, advice and stories to promote the growth of environmental awareness.

In addition, the website evaluates and recommends various environmentally friendly products and services to help users make more environmentally friendly purchasing decisions.

Page names

Home Page: Describes the website's mission and what it offers.

Green Tips: Provides practical, everyday green advice and strategies.

Community Forum: Users can share and discuss environmental protection experiences and ideas.

Environmentally friendly products: Recommend and evaluate various environmentally friendly products and services.

News & Events: Share the latest environmental news and upcoming environmental events.

Data storage, manipulation and viewing

The website will store user-generated content such as forum posts, product reviews and personal stories.

Users can create accounts to participate in forum discussions, post comments and subscribe to newsletters.

For environmentally friendly product information (such as name, description, rating), only authorized administrators can add and update it.

The website will use security measures to protect user data and privacy.